UnitedHealthcare Navigate®

A focus on primary care and the patient-doctor relationship for better access to quality, efficient care.

Providing the guidance of a primary care physician for members

UnitedHealthcare Navigate plans offer patient-centered health care benefits. Upon enrollment, members choose a primary care physician (PCP), who helps them navigate the complex health care system and refers them to other network physicians or specialists when additional care is needed.

Members must obtain a referral from their PCP before seeing another network physician.

A trusted health care guide: the primary care physician

The primary care physician (PCP) gets to know a member by providing care for most of his or her needs such as annual well visits and preventive care. The PCP comes to understand a member’s health needs thoroughly, and can best refer the member to other network physicians or specialists when additional care is needed.

Members must obtain a referral from their PCP before seeing another network physician.

Referrals are required for services from a network OB/GYN, substance-related and addictive disorders, mental health services, and sexual and reproductive services from network providers.¹
